Dear human being calling himself David Dunkley,

Salutations. I came to the Garfield Barwick Building on November 24th to deliver the attach documents to you. It seems that the staff in your building are not aware of the common law of the land in Australia. They kept talking about the 'rules' which they then openly admitted were with respect to the corporation calling itself the Commonwealth of Australia.

It seems that Damien, Dihn Tran and Paul LeLarge are all committed to making sure that you did not get a copy of these documents.

You have made yourself a very hard man to communicate with David. Why would that be? You are, in the end, merely a private employee of a privately held run for profit company offering your adjudication services like McDonalds offers burgers. Your intransigence in accepting or responding to communications is being posted to free man groups including your name. You have no special privileges or rights of anonymity. You are a servant of the people of the land called Australia but you are not being a very obedient or helpful servant. Why is that?

Best Regards
